LONDON, DECEMBER 15.

THE Vox Populi has often been stiled Vox Dei, and whatever may be the opinion of contending parties concerning it, in respect to the late election for the county of Middlesex, the spirit displayed on that occasion by the electors is, at least, truly laudable. To them, and to them alone, it certainly belongs to choose their representatives; and without entering into any invidious comparison of the merits of the two respective candidates, we are bound in justice to commend the noble struggle of the freeholders, who, unawed by power, uninfluenced by favour, so gallantly vindicated their own privileges, by choosing the man they thought proper. May the glorious example spread, and Britons, in an affair where their own welfare and that of posterity are so nearly concerned, never submit to be dictated to, in their choice of members of parliament, by any persons HOW GREAT SOEVER!

All the troops in Silesia, being the best regiments in the King of Prussia's service, are in full march to join the Russians.

December 20. It is reported that a certain court, being required to give an explanation with regard to their proceedings with Corsica, the minister received for answer, "You had better attend to your own business at home, and prevent your windows from being broken when you gratify the humour of the populace, by illuminating them, than concern yourself with the affairs of another Prince and his subjects, as these people NOW ARE by the cession from their former sovereigns." Certainly his court, if any such thing was said, did not depend on, or allude to the trifling disturbances that are past; but on the disturbance and troubles which they expected would be raised by future means; possibly at that time concerted and resolved on, and since executed.

December 31. Though a certain voluntary exile hath reaped no kind of benefit from the waters of Barege, yet there is no talk of his returning, as his physicians are of opinion, that any foreign climate is much better for his health than that of England.

January 12. It is given as a reason, to the question why the changes in the ministry have not been yet declared, that the person who is to have some of the highest posts, before his dismission from office in 1764, said something to a great personage, that gave occasion to the latter to say, "He would never do business with him again." However, measures are now pursuing to bring about a reconciliation; and which, if not effected, will overturn the present plan for a new ministry.

A large quantity of brass and iron ordnance warlike stores, and ammunition, have been weekly exported from the river for Portugal ever since the peace, where it is said a magazine is forming for the use of the Family Compact, in case there should be another rupture with Great-Britain.

According to letters from Leghorn, General Paoli has now a number of Scotch Highlanders in his pay, several of whom had served in the last war.

January 16. The principal freeholders of the county of Berks, are at this time preparing instructions to be given to their members, and they only waited the issue of the deliberations of Middlesex, in order to appoint a day of meeting.

We hear that Mr. Wilkes has lately received a polite letter, accompanied with a considerable present, from a Scots gentleman of very distinguished abilities.

On Saturday five prisoners were tried at the Old Bailey, two of whom were capitally convicted, viz.

Edward Quirk and Lawrence Bolf, for aiding and abetting in the murder of George Clark, clerk to an attorney, at the late election at Brentford, where in the riot and tumult, he received a blow on the head with a bludgeon, of which he died in a few days. On motion of their council, the judges respited their sentence till this day: their trials lasted fourteen hours. The council for the prosecution were Mr. Serjeant Leigh, Mr. Impey, and another; for the prisoners, Mr. Serjeant Davey, Mr. Serjeant Burland, Mr. Lucas, Mr. Walker, and Mr. Murphy.

January 17. We hear that the V——e are confirmed.

In the Brussels Gazette of Jan. 9, which arrived this day, is the following article:—"London, Dec. 30. It is said that endeavours are using to accommodate the differences between the ministry and Mr. Wilkes, and to put an end to a contest which too much engages the application of government at this present conjuncture, when the affairs of Europe in general, and that of this kingdom, and its colonies in particular, are of such a nature as to engage their utmost attention."

We hear that Mr. Alderman Wilkes cannot take up his residence in the city, as we are told he purposes, 'till the full expiration of the time he was sentenced to remain in durance.

We hear that a certain Barrow has taken a trip to France.

The person principally employed to hire a mob on a certain occasion last, who are said, disappeared some time.

A motion was made yesterday at the Old Bailey, in arrest of judgment in behalf of Lawrence Bolf and Edward Quirk, two of the Brentford rioters, capitally convicted on Saturday last for the murder of Mr. Clark; when the arguments of the council lasted near six hours; but the motion was over ruled, and the unfortunate prisoners received sentence to be executed to-morrow. Quirk earnestly desired to have 'till Saturday next to prepare for death.

Leghorn, Dec. 23. A report prevails here, that the Corficans have surprized the French garison at Oletta, and made them prisoners of war; the Marquis Chauvelin still continues at Bastia, and has lately proposed a cessation of arms to Paoli, which that spirited Chief refused to listen to.

London, January 18. The Earl of Cornwallis is made one of the joint Vice-Treasurers of Ireland; and the Earl of Essex, Chief Justice in Eyre.

Sunday Lady Betty Hamilton, daughter of her Grace the Dutchess of Hamilton, by the late Duke, was introduced to their Majesties at court, and most graciously received. Her ladyship is esteemed one of the finest women of the age.

We hear a certain lady in the highest esteem will be soon be created a Peeress of Ireland in her own right.

We hear a noble Earl intends shortly to read his recantation from the errors of the Church of Rome.

Yesterday Sir Edward Hawke had a great levee at his house in Bloomsbury-square, for the first time since his being appointed First Lord of the Admiralty, and we hear junior officers who have served their proper time in the navy will be promoted according to seniority, agreeable to the former practice of that department.

It is said that Mr. Serjeant Glynn was so ill and lame on Monday, that he was obliged to be helped out of his carriage into a chair ready to receive him, and in which he was carried to the Lobby of the House of Lords.

It is said, that by the death of the late Mrs. Mead, a fortune of near 100,000l. devolves to the wife and daughter of John Wilkes, Esq.

When the judge asked the prisoners on Monday, what they had to say for themselves, one of them replied, "by J——s, Sir W——has done us a great favour."

Last night an order was sent to the Sheriffs to respite, for a week, the execution of the two chairmen, who were to have died this morning for the murder of Mr. Clarke, in the riot at Brentford.

It is reported, that a great lawyer has given it as his opinion, that the late election of a City Alderman is not valid, on account of the poll not having been continued till Wednesday, as was at first declared it should be. But many think, as a great Magistrate declared Mr. Wilkes duly elected, the above plea is insupportable.

January 19. This day the right hon. the House of Peers met, pursuant to their adjournment of monday.

The hon. House of Commons met also this day, for the first time since their adjournment before Christmas.

The electors of the city and liberty of Westminster, are to elect one undoubtedly give Exeter exchange, in order to consider of proper instructions to be given to their representatives in parliament.

We are informed, that the fleet which will sail early in the spring to the Mediterranean, consists of 16 sail of the line, including one ship of 90 guns, and two of 84, with five fire ships and bomb vessels. That 12 battalions of foot, 4 battalions of marines, and nine companies of artillery, with a train of field artillery, and a large number of battering cannon, will be embarked for the same service.

To supply the absence of that military force, as well as of six battalions which are to go to Ireland, 12,000 militia are immediately to be embodied; and 30 companies of invalids, each consisting of 120 men, commanded by one Captain, one Lieutenant, and one Ensign, to be drafted from the out-pensioners of Chelsea hospital: The officers from the seniors of each rank upon the half-pay list. These companies are to do duty in the different garrisons of Great Britain.

It is rumoured that a certain gentleman made over his effects before he went abroad.

It is reported that another gentleman is obliged to abscond, on account of being unable to answer the demands on him respecting a late election.

The steward of one great man, and the agent of another, have both disappeared on account of orders being given for taking them into custody, for having hired some of the fellows concerned in the Brentford riot.

It is said that the respite of Bell and Mac Quirk, condemned for the murder of Mr. Clark at the late riot at Brentford, was occasioned by the day of their execution first fixed being that appointed to be observed as her Majesty's birth day; and that they will suffer next Wednesday.

NEW-LONDON, January 29.

ON the 16th the wife of Mr. John Vaughan, of Lebanon, agreed upon a spinning match with a neighbouring young woman; they began their work 3-4 of an hour after sun rise, and left off at nine o'clock in the evening of the same day; in which time Mrs. Vaughan spun seven skeins and two hanks of linen yarn, each skein containing 15 knots: The other person spun six skeins and ten knots, the skeins of equal bignefs with the firft mentioned.——Would the fair in general apply their hands to the diftaff, inftead of the idle apparatus of the tea table, perhaps we might not always be beholden to Afia for our food or Europe for our cloathing.

Boston, January 30. We are pleafed to hear from a neighbouring colony, that the glorious cauſe of liberty is adhered to in the firmeft manner; that it has a tendency to reconcile all inteſtine party diſputes, and unite every ſect and denomination in religion: As an inſtance of this truth, a gentleman of the Preſbyterian perſuaſion aged juſt 45, was on Sunday laſt married to a Quaker lady of great fortune, of the ſame age; it is alſo remarkable that this happy gentleman is her forty fifth ſuitor; they are determin'd to name their firſt ſon Forty-Five, and their firſt daughter Ninety-Two.

As the following extraordinary extract of a letter from London, dated November 17, appears to have been ſent us with a deſign to impoſe on the public, we have publiſhed it verbatim. It was written in imitation of printing; under cover directed to Meſſrs. Mein and Fleming, thrown into the yard before the houſe, was picked up by a neighbour who delivered it to one of our ſervants.

Extract of a letter from London, November 17.

ANNAPOLIS, February 2.

Extract of a Letter, dated November 18, 1768. from a Gentleman in London, to his Friend in this place.

"YOU will probably, before the receipt of this, ſee the King's Speech, and from it may form a certain judgment of the fate of America——I attended the houſe the firſt day, and heard the debate on a meſſage in anſwer to it. It was moved by Lord Henley, who was ſupported by Mr. Stanley, Lords North, Barrington, Beauchamp, and Clive, Sir George Saville, George Onſlow, and George Grenville, that the thanks of the houſe be returned to his Majeſty, for the care he had taken to preſerve peace and good order in America, and to oblige the inhabitants there, to ſubmit to the regulations lately made by the parliament. They ſpoke nearly to the ſame purpoſe, urging the right of taxation by the parliament, as the ſupreme legiſlature of the Britiſh dominions. The colonies, they compared to corporations, having power to make laws for particular purpoſes, which could not exempt them from that right. They recited, fully, every ſtep that had been taken by any of the colonies, to ſhew the general diſpoſition to independency, and declared the proceedings at Boſton, to be an abſolute denial of all ſubordination to the legiſlature, or executive powers of government here. Lord North declared, that on the repeal of the Stamp-Act, he apprehended the Americans would exult in their ſucceſs, and attribute it to a conſciouſneſs in the parliament, of their want of right; and that, at every future period, they would ſhew the ſame diſpoſition to oppoſe the meaſures of government, that they did on that occaſion——That it was high time that ſpirit ſhould be curbed——That the act, which was the ſubject of their preſent diſpute, was made merely to try their diſpoſitions and that the event had fully juſtified his ſuſpicions——That, for his part, he was determined never to conſent to another repeal, or liſten to any propoſals of compromiſing matters, 'till he had brought America to his feet; and that he did not doubt, but that if Corſica, and ſome others of the principal perſons, who had been active in inflaming the minds of the people, were executed, that it would effectually prevent the like attempts for the future——by intimidating others from their example; that he ſhould be always for tempering juſtice with mercy, but that there were caſes (of which this was one) when mercy would be criminal.——

"Grenville was tedious.——He warmly inſiſted on the right of taxation——denied the diſtinction between internal and external taxes——declared legiſlation and taxation inſeparable, and conſequently all regulations of trade, were taxes for the purpoſe of raiſing a revenue: That if the right was given up in one,——it muſt be in every inſtance——or conſtant diſputes would ariſe, what were regulations, and what were taxes——and, upon theſe diſputes, he would be glad to know who were to be the judges.——He threw out many reflecting things againſt Lords Chatham and Camden, as to the opinion they had given on the Stamp-Act——cited the Farmer's Letters, and called them an impudent, ſeditious, infamous libel——As to diſſolving the Boſton Aſſembly, becauſe they would not reſcind their reſolutions——he ſaid, it was illegal, and a daring infringement of their conſtitution.——Dowdeſwell, Burke, Byrd, Beckford, Townſend, and ſome others, ſpoke in oppoſition——They were much ſuperior in point of eloquence, and denied the right. They went on the doctrine of repreſentation, and made a diſtinction, that acts of oppoſition, which would be deemed rebellion in England, would be juſtifiable in America——becauſe no conſent had ever been given to the meaſures which occaſioned it: That as they looked on the ſpeech from the throne, to be only the declaration of the miniſter, they would not thank the miniſter for meaſures they had reaſon to diſapprove——But, inſtead of thanking the King for the care, &c. &c.——they propoſed an amendment, to aſſure his Majeſty, that they would immediately enquire into the meaſures that had been taken, and that nothing, on their part, ſhould be wanting, to enable him to ſupport the dignity of his crown, and the conſtitution——and ſecure effectually the authority of parliament.

"This propoſed amendment was the the occaſion of the debate, and thoſe who propoſed it, declared——that before they would conſent to condemn the proceedings of the people in America, they could firſt enquire into the cauſe of their grievances; that they had reaſon to believe much provocation had been given, and very unjuſt fable, as well as impolitic ſteps, had been taken againſt them.——The debate was warm, and neither party ſparing in invectives againſt each other. Many things were ſaid againſt the miniſtry, as to their want of judgment, reſolution, and ſteadineſs of conduct.——The permitting the French to continue their operations againſt Corſica,——and the importance of that iſland, in preſerving the balance of power, was fully argued.——The tumults, and continual mobs in different parts of the kingdom, to the hindrance of the ordinary courſe of juſtice, was imputed to their timidity; and, upon the whole, they were threatened that their conduct, in every particular, ſhould be ſtrictly ſcrutinized——I was not well, and left the houſe, before the debate was concluded——but ſtayed long enough to obſerve the miniſtry much too ſtrong.

PHILADELPHIA, February 2.

"Dr. Franklin is very well, and very buſy. You do not ſee him this year. Indeed it is better for you that he is where he is."

A Gentleman in London writes his friend here (November 3) as follows.

"Some of the wiſeſt politicians imagine vigorous meaſures will be purſued with you. Doctor Franklin is indefatigable in his endeavours to ſerve his country. I heard him ſay, a few days ago, in a large company, "Britain has no right to tax the colonies, and never had any "ſuch right, and I truſt never will have it." Be not alarmed if you ſhould hear of military preparations, to enforce the late duties that have been impoſed on you."

By a gentleman, lately from the Grenades, we are informed, there was great likelihood of a fine crop, and they were to begin to cut the firſt of January; that Governor Melville was daily expected there from England; that orders were arrived, for the Lieutenant Governor to ſuſpend legiſlation at the Grenades, Dominica, and St. Vincents, till further orders from home; that the French were adding greatly to their fortifications at Guadaloupe; that at Martinico they were erecting a ſtrong fortification on an eminence, commanding the forts taken by the Engliſh laſt war; and that upwards of 200 men were daily employed in making Gun carriages.

BOSTON, February 9.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in London, to his friend in Boſton.

"I thank you for the particulars concerning your public affairs; and with what has happened ſince, do not more embroil them. However, I am in hopes that in the end, it will turn out to the advantage of the colonies. Your traders before were too forward to run deep in debt with our merchants, and thereby involved themſelves in great difficulties. They were too fond of the faſhions and follies of England, and too negligent of the great natural advantages of their own country: Trading ſo much upon credit, and uſing the extravagancies and luxuries of the rich and opulent, have already done the colonies irreparable damage, ſunk their character, and ſap'd their virtue. They will now be obliged (if the preſent diſpoſition holds) to trade more upon their own ſtock, to be more attentive to the rules of commerce, more punctual in their payments, and more ready to retrench many ſuperfluous expences, which only tend to enervate their minds, waſte their ſubſtance, and enfeeble their bodies."——

PHILADELPHIA, February 9.

Extract of a Letter from London, November 25, 1768.

"An alliance is actually concluded between Ruſſia, Sweden, Denmark, Pruſſia, Holland, and England, to counteract the family-compact.—The parliament have determined two elections void, and new writs are iſſued in conſequence; it is ſuppoſed many others will be determined in the ſame manner."

Extract of another Letter, dated December 2.

"Wilkes's affair is put off till Wedneſday ſe'nnight, owing, it is ſaid, to a diſpute in the houſe of Lords, about the propriety of three of their members attending the commons, on his account."

And by ſundry other letters from London, we learn, that the parliament had called for all Governor Bernard's letters, Lord Hillſborough's, and every other paper relative to the Boſton diſturbances, though they would not go into the examination of them till Chriſtmas: That a motion was made, to examine into the cauſe of the diſturbances in St. George's Fields, &c. and to have Lord Barrington's letters and orders, with all the other papers, brought before them, but it paſſed in the negative: That the affair of Corſica had been fully diſcuſſed, when it was determined, by 250 voices againſt 80, not to intermeddle therewith: That it was ſaid the miniſtry had certainly ſent orders to ſeize ſome of the Boſtonian ringleaders, and carry them to England, but it was imagined nothing could be done with them, unleſs it were to give them penſions or places: That new partiſans aroſe every day to eſpouſe our cauſe, and though the miniſtry talked the ſame language they formerly did, yet it was believed all would end in our reſerving the legiſlation, as in Ireland, and their giving up the right of taxation to our repreſentatives: That it ſeemed as if they wiſhed we would propoſe ſome plan of accommodation: And that the parliament have prohibited, for a further time, the exportation of corn from England.

At a meeting of a large number of freeholders in this city, it was unanimouſly agreed, that, in order to encourage the increaſe of SHEEP, they would not ſuffer any LAMB to be conſumed in their families for the enſuing year.

Scott, and the packet, which mention, from good authority, that the American petitions, &c. were not to be laid before parliament, till the 1ſt of February, when every other buſineſs would be ſet aſide till the American affairs are finiſhed.

Philadelphia, February 16. CHARLES-TOWN, March 23.

WE are informed, by letters from the Western fettlements in this province (and several gentlemen of character from those parts confirm it) that some persons lately entrusted with the service of warrants issued from the courts here, for apprehending some of the people stiled Regulators, have so far exceeded the powers wherewith they were invested, that there is great danger of the whole country being again thrown into confusion; and that unless a speedy stop is put to such proceedings, new tumults may arise, and bloodshed probably ensue.—The principal Leader of the party complained of, it is said, stiles himself Colonel; pretends that he is cloathed with an authority superior to all the Country Magistrates and Militia Officers; engages volunteers, at £. 20 per month and a bottle of rum per day; impresses provisions and horses wherever he pleases, leaving whole families destitute of both; promiscuously seizes all that have been stiled Regulators, tho' not mentioned in any warrants, and confines them in a Cell or Dungeon; has many returned horse-thieves and banditti in his retinue; and extorts an oath of fidelity from those he engages in his service.——Thus is the conduct of one Scaffell, or Scaffold represented to us.——If these representations are unjust, the meeting of the General Assembly, and also of the Court of General Sessions being at hand, he will soon have an opportunity of acquitting himself.——At the same time we are informed, that the whole body of the people that formerly were stiled Regulators (except some villains who have lately assumed that name) have been perfectly quiet, ever since the issuing a certain proclamation, and that they will continue so, impatiently waiting the event of sundry humble petitions for redress of many and great grievances.

Rodolph Bissard, John Fulman, and Bartholomew Corgman, brought to town last Thursday, having undergone an examination the next day, were committed to goal; and Christopher Smith and Thomas Trap, after a like examination, admitted to bail.

The GENERAL GAZETTE of the 20th instant, tells us, "The regiment now at the Barracks we hear, is under orders to be ready, at an hour's notice, to embark from this province;" for which, if true, few will be sorry (in the present circumstances of affairs) altho' it must be acknowledged, in justice to the officers and men of that corps, that no regiment ever merited more respect for the regularity of their conduct.——Saturday last, being the anniversary of the Repeal of the American STAMP-ACT, the same was observed here nearly as usual.——The MECHANICKS, with other inhabitants, who consecrated a Tree to LIBERTY, in Mr. Maxyck's pasture, on the 18th of October last, particularly celebrated it, by meeting and having a handsome entertainment there; after which they walked in procession, preceded by TWENTY-SIX lights, to Mr. Robert Dillon's, where they were honoured with the company of the late Speaker, and several of the new elected representatives of the people, and spent the evening in the most social and joyous manner, drinking many truly loyal, patriotic and constitutional toasts.——It being also the anniversary feast of the MASTERS, LODGE of Free and Accepted Masons, that Society met, and had an elegant entertainment, at Mr. Elisha Prinfet's, where was present the most worshipful and honourable Egerton Leigh, Esq; provincial Grand-Master, and other distinguished Brothers, and spent the day in a manner suitable to the occasion and their institution.——At James Island, and several other places in the country, it was likewise celebrated, with many testimonies of satisfaction.——But every where, the joy seem'd to be in some measure damp'd, by the existence of the late Revenue-Act; a repeal whereof, upon constitutional principles, would restore the most perfect harmony, and such a mutually beneficial a union, between Great-Britain and her colonies, as every well-wisher to both must wish to be perpetuated.——Among the toasts drank, in the different assemblies, upon this occasion, were, The great American patriot, the PENNSYLVANIA FARMER; all the patriots in Britain and America, by name; the Virginia and Massachusetts Assemblies; the glorious numbers NINETY-TWO and TWENTY-SIX; perseverance in and success to AMERICAN MANUFACTURES, particularly mentioned; confusion to all attempts to subvert the British constitution; a speedy repeal of all unconstitutional acts of parliament; and a perpetual union upon constitutional terms, &c. &c. &c.

ST. PATRICK's Day, was observed here last week, with more solemnity and jollity than for many years past.

Last Thursday James Skirving, Esq; was married, to Mrs. Charlotte Matthews, relict of Mr. James Matthewes, deceased.

Last Friday night died, Capt. JAMES ROBERTS, formerly a Branch-Pilot for this port and harbour, afterwards, in the last war, commander of a privateer fitted out here, and since master of different vessels in the merchant service. He was remarkable for his bravery, and not less so for strict honour in all his dealings; but he has left an almost helpless family."

The same day the body of Mr. Thomas Coleman, one of the unfortunate persons drowned on the 4th instant, was found near Captain Lempriere's point, and on Saturday brought to town, where, after a jury had made the necessary inquisition, it was decently interred, the Fellowship and Recess Societies attending the funeral. Last Monday the body of Mr. John Hill was likewise found, near the same place, brought to town, and buried as the former. The body of Captain George Higgins has not yet been found, nor is the boat, wherein the three were drowned.

The Brigantine Carolina Packet, Patrick Dennis master, of and for New-York from Cape St. Nicola, is lost on the Hogsties; the Captain, part of the crew and cargo, arrived here last tuesday in the Sloop Mary, Captain Morgat.

Captain Clark, who arrived here last Friday evening, in the morning of that day saw a Scooner, in seven fathom water, that had been overset.

Extracts of a Letter, received the 18th instant, from JACOB POTTER, a Dutchman, who was Cooper on board the Scooner PROSPER, of this Port, whereof ABRAHAM REMINGTON was Master, FRANCIS DUPAS, a Jew, being Supercargo dated 5th of March, 1769

AFTER recounting the several voyages the vessel had made amongst the Dutch, Danish and French islands, the writer says, "They at last arrived at Cape Francois, on Hispaniola, where Capt. Remington going on shore, Dupas took the opportunity of his absence, and discharged all the English sailors, whom the letter-writer would have followed, but was refused his wages; they then shipped seven or eight Frenchmen, and sailed for Leogan, but Rum being thought too dear there, Dupas perswaded Capt. Remington (though it was against his will at first) to go to Dunns Maria, alledging it would be cheaper there; they accordingly arrived at the latter place, and Dupas having a plantation there, he detained the vessel in that harbour two months, towards the end of which time, he put Capt. Remington in irons, threatening the letter-writer with the like treatment, and also to handcuff him, if he spoke one word of English to the captain: Mr. Remington was then carried on shore, to Dupas's plantation, where, at the end of about five days he died of Poison, after having suffered inexpressible torments, and was buried in a thicket. Dupas likewise made the same execrable attempt on the letter-writer, by mixing Poison in Coffee, part of which he drank, but quickly discharged it again by vomiting, great quantities of blood being also voided therewith: Dupas not succeeding in this first trial, endeavoured to force the writer to eat some Soup, but Capt. Remington's Negro Boy Dick informed him, that he saw Dupas mix Poison with it, and he would not touch it; Dupas then sat the Soup by, intending the Cooper should eat it in the morning, when it being accordingly brought for him, he set it down, and threw it Dupas's cats eating a very little of it, he instantly drove them away, but the effect was so violent, that they immediately vomited excessively. Dupas possessed himself of Capt. Remington's papers, his negro boy, and effects, and then sold the vessel; the Cooper getting away in the best manner he could, without receiving any wages, after serving on board the Scooner since December, 1767."

Tuesday last, Mr. Tailler, of Savannah in Georgia merchant, was married to Miss Eliz Bellinger, daughter of Edmond Bellinger, Esq.

Capt. McAlpin, just arrived from Jamaica, spoke with the Brigt. Grant, Robert Short master, last monday, in the gulf stream of Portugal Royal, out 32 days from London, bound for St. Augustine, where he supposes she got in the next day.

TWO valuable TRACTS OF LAND, in Granville county, on a branch of Coosawhatchie, and about seven miles from the Bridge. One tract contains 500 acres, two hundred of which is rich tupelo swamp intermixed with large cypress trees; the high land is well timbered with oak and hickory, and great plenty of yellow pine; it is butting and bounding to the Northeastward part on Mr. James Clark's land, and part on vacant land, and on all other sides on vacant land. The other tract contains 100 acres, about a mile distant from the former, upwards of 150 of which is the same rice swamp as the other, with the same timber, both in the swamp and on the high land; and is butting and bounding to the Southeastward on lands of the late Mrs. Middleton, deceased, to the Northward on Mr. James Clark's land, and on all other sides on vacant lands. The lines of both tracts run quite across the swamp, which is near half a mile from side to side. Both of the tracts are inferior to none in the province for corn, rice, indico and lumber, and, with very little trouble, may be made as valuable rice plantations as any whatever, according to the quantity of land.

The purchaser may have a twelve month's credit, paying interest and giving approved security.

Any person inclinable to purchase either or both of the said tracts, before the day of sale, may have them on very reasonable terms, by applying to Messrs. HABERSHAM & BONNEAU, merchants in Charles-Town, in whose hands the plats are to be seen, and may be treated with for the same.

The PARTNERSHIP of GODFREY & GADSDEN,
Expiring with the present Year,

THEY return their thanks to their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS for their favours received, and being under a necessity of closing their concerns as soon as possible, they will be additionally obliged to those indebted to them, to discharge the same this crop, that they may be enabled to settle the demands that may be against the copartnership: And, as there is a very large amount of debts in open accompts, that have been long standing, they must insist on the same being paid, or otherwise settled to their satisfaction, as a neglect of so reasonable a demand, will be attended with disagreeable consequences.

Rice, Deer-Skins and Indico, such as we shall approve of, will be taken in payment, at the market price, if offered to us on its arrival in Charles-Town. [t.f.]

December 14*th*, 1768.

THAT he intends to carry on business in his own name alone, after the close of this year, and will therefore be obliged to them for a CONTINUANCE of their FAVOURS, as he will endavour to keep up a GOOD ASSORTMENT of such GOODS as are usually imported into this province, which he is determined to sell at the most reasonable rates:——Among those on hand, he has printed Linens and Cottons, at 10*s.* and 13/9 per yard, also a great variety of LINEN DRAPERY GOODS, at Nine for One, CASH, by the piece or quantity.

Rice, Deer-Skins, and Indico (such as he may approve of) will always be taken, at the market price, in payment of accompts.
